

SLOVENIA'S BEST FOR YOUNG READERS

SLOVENIA'S BEST FOR YOUNG READERS

Only the best is good enough for children ...

Around 500 original book titles for children and young adults are published in Slovenia every year. Without sounding too nostalgic, it's worth mentioning that we recently celebrated two important anniversaries: 100 years since the first Slovene picture book (its eponymous character Martin Krpan remains to this day one of the most famous smugglers in Slovenia), and the 60th anniversary of one of the most popular original characters in Slovene children's books – Slipper Keeper Kitty, illustrated by Ančka Gošnik Godec. Another point is that, despite the small size of our market with only two million speakers, we have quite a few titles which have been continuously reprinted for over sixty years and some which have even reached a quarter million copies. Some of the most popular are still the classics of illustration, which have been on the scene for over half a century, capable of addressing generation after generation with their interpretive power and timeless poetics. In Bologna this year we are paying them particular attention; they include the illustrators Jelka Reichman, Marlenka Stupica, Ančka Gošnik Godec and Marjanca Jemec Božič, who worked for decades with one of the foremost editors of children's books in Slovenia, Kristina Brenkova, whose work motto I have also borrowed for the title of this address.

The picture book in Slovenia is in excellent form. Creators get international attention and Slovene illustration continues to win numerous awards, recognized as being among the best in the world (most recently the visually sophisticated Alenka Sottler received the Gold Medal of the US Society of Illustrators).

Exporting publishing rights for children's literature increases exponentially every year. Publishers wanting works which are fresh, unusual and innovative, both in terms of content and visually, are also looking to Slovene authors and illustrators in the knowledge that Slovenia is a place where the finest creativity is refreshing, visually appealing and contemporary. Many of our valuable contacts are formed and expanded at the Bologna Children's Book Fair, the leading event for children's literature on a world scale. We are proud of the many years of participation at the fair and honoured that we will crown our participation with the appearance of Slovenia as the 2021 Guest of Honour in Bologna.

This catalogue is mostly intended for you, dear publishers from around the world. May it be an inspiration which will encourage you to bring Slovene authors and illustrators to children across the world. Let's expand our imagination, bring ourselves stories – in words and pictures.

P.S. The Slovenian Book Agency is here to help you do so!

Renata Zamida
Director, Slovenian Book Agency

Quality Is Still Winning

With a population of just two million and a non-existent art market, it is perhaps incomprehensible at first glance why Slovenia is a country where illustration has been thriving and reaching artistic heights since the end of World War II. Such miracles happen because of the commitment and considerable number of people who cherish culture, some of whom are willing to dedicate their lives to it.

Because of its ideological orientation towards culture and quality education of children and youth, and, in particular, because of favourable circumstances that placed committed individuals in key nodes of power, Slovenia developed in the seven postwar decades an infrastructure and institutions that follow illustrators on their path and that also today afford at least partial shelter in the uncertain world of contemporary art creation.

Illustrators study at the Academy of Fine Arts and Design in Ljubljana, after which they can become members of the illustration section of the Slovenian Association of Fine Arts Societies, which, among other events, also organises the popular and well-visited Biennial of Slovenian Illustration in cooperation with the biggest Slovenian cultural institution, Cankarjev dom in Ljubljana. It brings to the general and professional public the greatest achievements of established illustrators as well as works by young emerging authors who are entering the national illustration landscape.

Publishing has been an important activity for Slovenian illustration since the end of World War II, particularly that of the central Slovenian publishing house, Mladinska knjiga, which prides itself on magazines for children and youth of exceptional quality. Illustration is thus embedded in the cultural consciousness of every Slovenian citizen from a very early age. Since its start, the publishing house has followed a clear editorial policy on decorating works of fiction. Other independent, smaller publishing houses focused on releasing fiction adhere to this established level of quality and ensure a variety of expression. In recent years, the independent scene has focused on grooming an audience for illustration as original art and on establishing a market for quality illustration. This task is performed by Vodnikova domačija in Šiška and Dobra Vaga among others. The Independent Biennial holds up a mirror to the dominant lines. Illustration is also well-represented in art history, as it was already in the age of modernism, when it was still regarded as an art expression subordinate to painting, that its quality drew the attention of the profession.

Illustration is also very much present in the Slovenian everyday. A strong generation of "storytellers", women illustrators who, decades ago, marked the Slovenian landscape and whose remarkable quality and styles of expression are recognized by all Slovenians, ushered in new waves of quality authors. Periodicals and book releases have, by virtue of exceptional editors who continue to ensure that all generations have access to only top quality images and words, moulded generations of Slovenian illustrators.

Recent decades have brought changes in the social order, and the fight for quality has become more important than ever before in the flood of publications. The fight is successful for the time being. Slovenian illustration stands out in children's, original, book, scientific, commercial and educational illustration, the space is diversified generically, generationally and stylistically.

Authors showcased in this catalogue are but the tip of the iceberg of those who have dedicated their creative passions to illustration and ensured that it has borne plentiful fruit for decades. Their quality is evidenced by several of the most prestigious international and national awards, their frequently independent entry into international illustration markets and numerous fans of their work. You are invited to pull back the curtain and peek into a world where small things grow into big ones.

PhD, assistant professor at the Academy of Fine Arts and Design, Department of Theory

From the Classics to Social Networks

The catalogue you are now holding contains authors who are all very important Slovenian artists, otherwise they would not be here. And yet some of them are a category unto themselves. They reach the very pinnacle of Slovenian poetry. Here you will find the central Slovenian neo-avant-garde poet Tomaž Šalamun as well as key modernists and postmodernists – Kajetan Kovič, Tone Pavček, Niko Grafenauer, Svetlana Makarovič, Milan Dekleva, Boris A. Novak, Miroslav Košuta. More than half a century of contemporary Slovenian classics.

Why is this something special? It is special that these are poets for adults – all recipients of the most prestigious Slovenian award for life work, named, of course, after the great poet France Prešeren – as well as poets and writers for children. And even though Slovenians are not the most avid readers of poetry for adults, the works of the same authors for children are among the most popular.

Yes, our contemporary classics have a way with young readers. The same cannot be said of all older classics, but we found a solution for that as well. For two years now, the most popular young-adult book has been sLOLvenian Classics 1 (volume 2 is in the making!), where Boštjan Gorenc – Pižama transposed fifty old classics into the sign system of social networks, which is familiar to young readers, and – more importantly – into the zone of fun. “UNESCO should declare sLOLvenian Classics 1 a cultural reserve, since it will preserve Slovenian literary classics for the future”, an acclaimed literary critic and editor said of the book.

We also have scientists who are, much like our contemporary literary classics, some of the biggest names of Slovenian and world science as well as popular authors of books for young readers. Climatologist Lučka Kajfež Bogataj, a member of eminent international panels on climate change, is always eager to explain to young people how important climate change is for the future of the planet. And physicist Sašo Dolenc draws their attention time and again with exciting stories from the world of science.

Picture books comprise the largest share of Slovenian literature for children and youth. There aren't many writer-illustrators, but those there are – for a long time Lila Prap, and in recent years also Manica K. Musil – are authentic and have already made a mark in the world. All, both integral authors and permanent or occasional creative pairs, “cram” the entire world into picture books (or illustrated long stories), literally and figuratively. Animals are the most abundant, which isn't a feature peculiar to Slovenian literature, though I dare claim that some of their creators cannot be surpassed. We have the most beautiful, playful and touching stories about dogs (Polonca Kovač), the most non-sensical and heart-warming stories about rare animal species (Peter Svetina), we even have animals who were made up by their authors, and yet entire generations of children truly believe in them (Svetlana Makarovič, Andrej Rozman Roza). Well, perhaps a more accurate designation for them would be “living beings”. And among living beings in children's literature we also have angels and god (again Peter Svetina), who are written so subtly that even unbelieving adults have to believe in them.

For children who are growing up, we have a range of quality young-adult novels. For those hungry for adventure (Tadej Golob, Žiga X Gombač, Slavko Pregl ...) and for those keen on (solving) problems. The latter abound in novels, sometimes writers identify them before the society does. They are exceptional at analysing recent phenomena (the influence of mediated reality on the formation of identity, for example, Miha Mazzini and Vladimir P. Štefanec) and gaze unflinchingly into the future (escalating social inequality and “hunger games” of all kinds, for example, Marjana Moškrič).

This brief overview does not even touch the surface of all that is best in contemporary Slovenian literature for children and youth. This is good for literature, which is inexhaustible, and unfair to the authors that I have failed to mention. They are, however, waiting for you on the following pages. You should definitely meet them.

The Main Slovenian Awards in the Field of Literature and Illustration for Young Readers

The Večernica Award

The Večernica Award is presented for best new literary work for children or young adults published by a Slovenian publishing house or author in the past year. The award has been presented every year since 1997 by the Maribor newspaper and publishing house Večer. The ceremony takes place in November at the traditional meeting of Slovenian children's and young-adult authors Eye of the Word (Oko besede) in Murska Sobota.

The Kristina Brenkova Award for the Original Slovenian Picture Book

The Kristina Brenkova Award for the Original Slovenian Picture Book was founded by the Association for Press and Media at the Chamber of Commerce and Industry of Slovenia. Its purpose is to promote creative Slovenian picture books and, at the same time, to contribute to an increased public interest in them. The award is aimed at Slovenian picture book authors, illustrators and publishers.

Since 2014, the New Paths Recognition for innovation in the field of picture book production has been presented in the framework of the Kristina Brenkova Award.

The Desetnica Award

The Desetnica Award is presented by the Children's and Youth Literature Section at the Slovene Writers' Association in Ljubljana for best children's or young-adult literary work. Only members of the Slovene Writers' Association are eligible for this award, which is given once a year for an author's work published over the last three years.

The Hinko Smrekar Awards

The Slovenian Biennial of Illustration affords an insight into Slovenian illustration and celebrates the finest creative achievements in this field, which the expert jury rewards with the Hinko Smrekar Lifetime Achievement Award and the Hinko Smrekar Award, Distinction, Accolade and Special Award in Recognition of a Young Artist.

*Nagrada
Hinka Smrekarja*

The Levstik Award

Mladinska knjiga Publishing House has presented the Levstik Award for best works of children's and young-adult literature since 1949. Only books published by Mladinska knjiga are eligible for the award. From 1949 to 1990, the awards were given every year, and from 1990 onwards every two years. The Levstik Award for Lifetime Achievement was introduced in 1999.

The Golden Pear Award

The Golden Pear Award is an accolade presented since 2010 by Pionirska – Centre for Youth Literature and Librarianship (Ljubljana City Library) within the national project Golden Pear, which strives to promote quality works of children's and young-adult literature in the Slovenian book market. The annual award is divided into four categories in recognition of four best publishing achievements in children's and young-adult literature: best Slovenian work of fiction, best Slovenian educational work, best translation, and, since 2017, best translated educational work. In addition, Pionirska prepares and publishes an annual guide to reading quality children's and young-adult literature, which evaluates the yearly literature production and gives the Golden Pear Rating to the finest works.

The Blue Bird Award

The Blue Bird Award has been presented since 2011 by Mladinska knjiga Group for best unpublished literary work on the basis of an annual competition, each year focusing on a specific literary genre, such as adult and young-adult novels.

TAKO JE ZASLUŽILA RAVNO DOVOLJ, DA JE LAHKO ŽIVELA.
NEKE PA SE JE NAD MARKOVIM RAZBEŠNELA HUDA
NEVIHTA. V STARO JE TREŠČILA IN JO PRELOMILA.
„JOJ, JOJ, JOJ,” JE TARNALA, „MOJA LJUBA
JOJ, JOJ, JOJ, KAKO BOM ŽIVELA BREZ NJE?”
HODILA JE SEM IN TJA, DVIGALA JE POLOMLJENE IN V
POBIRALA OBTOČENA ZELENA
TAKRAT JE OD NEKOD PRILETELA DROBNA. S JE TRIKRAT

Co-Financing Publications of Slovenian Authors in Foreign Languages

Slovenian Book Agency (JAK)

Founded in 2009, the Slovenian Book Agency (JAK) is a government institution that deals with all actors in the book publishing chain, from authors to publishers and readers.

Subsidies for the translations of Slovenian authors

The main form of international promotion is the co-financing of translations from Slovenian into other languages. JAK annually publishes a call for applications for co-financing translations of Slovenian authors' books into other languages, including adult fiction, children's and young-adult fiction, and essayistic and critical works on culture and the humanities, plays and comics. The subsidy covers up to 100 % of the translation costs. Grants cannot be awarded retroactively.

Mobility grants for Slovenian authors

The call for applications is published once a year. The applicant can be a Slovenian author who has been invited to a literary event abroad. The application must be enclosed with the invitation and the program of the event. The subsidy covers up to 100 % of eligible travel expenses.

The Trubar Foundation

The Trubar Foundation is a joint venture of the Slovene Writers' Association, Slovene PEN and the Center for Slovenian Literature. The aim of the Trubar Foundation is to subsidize publications of Slovenian literature in translation.

Subsidies to publishers for the printing costs of books translated from Slovene

Foreign publishers can apply for subsidies to publish unpublished translations of Slovenian authors in their native languages. The Trubar Foundation contributes up to 50 % of printing costs. It does not subsidize translation. Priority is given to the works of living authors who are already established in Slovenia. However, the Board will take all applications for works of fiction, poetry, drama, or literary essays into account, as long as they are originally written in Slovenian. The Board consists of seven equal members. They convene at least twice a year, usually in March and October. Therefore, applications received by the end of February and the end of September will be considered.
